

Entity Framework Core - Theory Answers

Why We Use Code First Rather Than Database First

Code First allows developers to build and manage the database directly from C# classes. It simplifies development, supports migrations, improves maintainability, and keeps the database synchronized with the application code.

Why We Use Fluent API More Than Data Annotations

Fluent API provides advanced configuration capabilities and keeps entity classes clean. It is more flexible than Data Annotations and is preferred for complex mappings and large applications.